

The Muse Starter Kit

What I used on Day 1 of the 30-day challenge

From Kalena's 30-day "I let Muse run my business" challenge.
Day 1: "Hey Muse, build ____."

WHERE VISION BECOMES STRUCTURE

What Muse actually is (plain English)

Muse is Meta's AI assistant that takes action inside your business apps, not just chat. You connect it to Instagram, Gmail, Google Calendar, and more, then it does real work: drafts your posts, builds your content calendar, recaps your week from your actual email and calendar. You still decide everything. It just does the heavy lifting.

The Day-1 Try-It Checklist

- ☐ Open Muse (the app or website)
- ☐ Connect your Instagram
- ☐ Connect your Gmail
- ☐ Connect your Google Calendar
- ☐ Say: "Hey Muse, build ___" (fill in YOUR most annoying weekly task)
- ☐ Make it show its work. Read every result before you use it.

Copy/Paste Starter Prompts

1. The audit

"Look at my Instagram profile and tell me the 3 biggest things hurting my reach, in plain English."

2. The calendar

"Build me a 7-day content calendar for [my business]. One post a day. Give me the hook for each one."

3. The captions

"Draft 3 versions of a caption about [topic]. Make them sound like me, not a robot."

4. The recap

"What did my business actually do this week? Check my calendar and email and give me a 5-line recap."

5. The ADHD brain-tamer

"I have ADHD and get overwhelmed. Break [big task] into tiny steps I can do in 15 minutes each."

The One Rule

Muse drafts. YOU decide.

Never post anything without reading it first.

Before You Go: The Real Lesson

Muse is a tool. The real work sits on top of it, and the tool optimizes what you already have. Three things decided whether Day 1 worked.

- + 1. Proprietary data in, quality out. I loaded my own frameworks, my audience analysis, and my brand voice into its memory. Feed it generic stuff and you get generic stuff back.
 - + 2. Explain your brand. Do not assume the AI knows anything about your business. Teach it like a brand-new hire.
 - + 3. Ask the right questions. This is the big one. You have to know a CRM exists before you can ask for one to be set up. You have to know what a pixel does before you ask for tracking. You have to understand sales funnels before you ask for one to be built. The thinking is still yours. The tool just executes it.
